HERMAN THOELECKE

Herman Thoelecke, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Thoelecke was born October 5, 1911 at Omaha, Neb., and died at Melrose, Neb., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gormley on December 13, 1921, at the age of 10. His parents both died in March 1919 during the flu epidemic. Herman attended school here at North Platte for a short time when he was about 12 years old. During this winter he had been attending high school at Arthur, boardin with Superintendent and Mrs. Hiett and going home to Mr. Gormley's for the week end. Herman attended regularly and although suffering some from digestive troubles, it was not considered serious until a few hours before the end. His four brothers, Roy, Lester, Arthur and Charles survive him. He also has three uncles, O. H. Thoelecke of North Platte; Louis G. Thoelecke of and Henry Denker of Omaha and one aunt, Miss Bertha Thoelecke of Omaha, and a grandfather, H. J. Denker of Omaha.

The funeral services were held at the home of O. H. Thoelecke in this city at 2:30 Thursday, Rev. Koch officiating.

ALL CHILDREN ARE Alike SAYS EDUCATIONAL EXPERT

A case reported by a teacher seems worthy of the thoughtful consideration of parents generally.

A little fellow of four and a half years, one of the mighty American host of spoiled children, made a demand of his kindergarten teacher which she could not grant. Then ensued the following dialogue:

George: But I'll scream!

Teacher: Oh, will you?

George: Yes, I scream very loud.

Teacher: Oh, do you?

George: Yes, I howl!

Teacher: Well, over in that corner is a chair for those who howl very loud. You may sit in it if you like.

George took his place in the chair and proceeded to howl. He did his best, but no one seemed to pay any attention. Finally he stopped and came to the teacher with an expression of childish amazement.

George: Does your head ache?

Teacher: Oh, no, indeed.

George: That's strange. When I howl at home it makes Mother's head ache and she gives me what I want.

As it turned out, George not only gave up the attempt but he never repeated it. He was cured at least as far as school was concerned though we may suppose he continued to carry on at home as before.

Parents will do well to note the two reasons—for there are two—why the teacher won. One was that the little fellow was not allowed to have what he wanted. Indeed, he was not given even the slightest sign that there was any chance whatever of such an outcome. If the teacher had shown nervousness or impatience, he would have construed it as a sign of weakening and would have continued his crying until she yielded; and after that he would have been master and tyrant at school as at home.

The other reason why the teacher won is that she did nothing during the test to arouse his ill-will or hostility. If she had "made fun of him," or become angry and punished him as most parents do, he would have continued through sheer obstinacy. She did neither; and so his last reason for holding out was taken away from him—Exchange.

Mrs. George Wilson of Hershey shopped in the city the latter part of the week.
